YOUNG MOON LAKE LAD FOUND SAFE

Wee Timmie Town, 23 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Town of the Moon Lake district, was found safe and sound at 11 o'clock Friday morning, August 8th, after searchers had beat the bushes for him all night long.

The young lad was found about 3/4 of a mile from home, placidly eating blueberries, after the harried parents and many searchers had searched for through-out the night.

Timmie had been picking blueberries with his mother and others of the family during the afternoon and his mother then sent him home with an older brother, Jay, aged 11, who took the young lad home and put him to bed. But though safely tucked away in bed, Wee Timmie had other ideas and so as soon as Jay's back was turned he got up out of bed and went to hunt his mother and the rest of the family who were still picking blueberries. But the lad had not reckoned with the fact that out in the bush all things look about the same, and so he soon lost his bearings and got lost.

His absence from the bed was soon discovered and the search was organized. Throughout the night the anxious parents and searching parties combed the woods but it was not until about 11 o'clock the following morning before wee Timmie was found.

Timmie's father is farming in the Moon Lake area. There are six other children in the family.

DRAYTON VALLEY BRIDGE SCENE OF ACCIDENT

Last Tuesday afternoon the bridge over the Saskatchewan River at Drayton Valley was the scene of a drowning when Rudolph Fisher, aged 40, who was painting the under side of the Bridge, fell to his death in the river 60 feet below the Bridge.

Apparently the scaffolding on which Mr. Fisher was working came loose.

Mr. Fisher is from Cherhill where his wife and family reside. He was working with three others at the time of the accident.

(cont'd next column)

The local B.C.M.P. have been searching the river since the accident occurred but so far no trace of the body has been found.

RODEO ATTENDANCE GOOD.

Drayton Valley's Third Annual Rodeo is now a part of history, but, with the weather, during the two days of the rodeo, at least, proving ideal locally, even if not good in districts close to Drayton Valley, attendance was very good.

Altogether some 2,500 persons went through the gates during the two-day event. Top-flight cowboys participated in the events with first-class rodeo stock supplied by Kessler and Vold. Amusement for both days was Harry Vold, of De Winton, whose partner, Reg Kessler, of Rosemary, also took part in the rodeo.

On the second day of the event a cutting horse competition was staged with five entries on their specially trained cutting horses. Winner in this event was Gail Ross, on Heron, horse, Connie Bee; Gail stacked up 724 points for the win. In second place was Gail's father, Cliff Ross, mounted on Coco Buck, with a score of 72 points; another Ross, Hales, 11 year-old son of Cliff, was third place winner with a score of 714, with Don McKay, on Skeeter Conway and Bill Collins on Payday placing fourth.

The big show was preceded by a parade on Saturday afternoon. The parade lined up on 50th Ave shortly after noon, after the Devon Band had played downtown for an hour in the morning. Some sixteen vehicles lined up for the parade, with the open car owned and driven by Mike Dale, of Dale's Shopping Centre in the lead. In the car were old-timers in this district Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mastre, Mrs. William Drake, whose husband had the first store and post-office here and who first gave the town the name of Drayton for the old home place in England, and Mrs. Johnson, also an old-timer in this area.

Also in the parade were old-timers in a horse-drawn wagon, Lions float, Drayton Valley Library, W.J. Floate, Old Equipment, Lewis Welding, Alberta Government Telephones, Atlantic Wire Lines Ltd.; Eskimo Fracturing Co.; R.D. Construction Co.; Drayton Valley Fire Brigade; Otis Pressures; Coal Cabins followed by Old Crow Movers, a comic float entered by McNeil and Sons, and a float entered by McNeil and Sons.

KEN MASON'S COLUMN:

THE PEMBINA NEWS ADVERTISER. Aug. 14, 1958.

EDMONTON -- Watch for a major announcement before too long concerning Alberta fabulous Athabasca oil sands.

Word leaked out last week -- prematurely -- that Richfield Oil Corporation, a large American concern, is studying the possibility of using nuclear energy to unlock the riches of the bituminous sands.

The news report caught officials of Richfield off guard. They're not yet ready to talk about their plans, but they admitted that the corporation is "investigating the possibility" of using atomic power to recover oil.

There's nothing official yet, but reliable sources say it won't be long before actual tests are in progress.

It's understood that the process Richfield is investigating involves nuclear explosions. According to provincial mines and minerals department officials, the method calls for the setting off of atomic explosions far underground.

The resulting heat, which is supposed to stay in the ground for months, separates the oil from the sand. Then holes are drilled around the blast area to drain off the oil.

Reports have it that experiments have been conducted in the United States to determine the effectiveness of nuclear energy in oil recovery. Apparently the heat from nuclear fuel can be used to boost the productivity of declining oil fields.

There is no confirmation, but Richfield is reported to have approached the various Canadian and U.S. government agencies which must clear the way for atomic experiments in northern Alberta.

There also is a possibility that the matter will be aired before public hearings of the Alberta oil and natural gas conservation board -- especially if there's a risk of atomic blasts damaging adjacent property. Richfield is reported to have vast reserves of land in the oil sands area, some 300 miles northeast of Edmonton.

The idea of using atomic energy to extract oil from the bituminous sands is not particularly new. The Alberta Research Council has mentioned it as a long-range possibility and Richfield has been studying it for some time.

What makes it important is that someone is apparently ready to go ahead and try it.

The oil sands haven't been in the news too much lately, but that doesn't mean oil companies aren't interested in them. There's plenty of research going on behind the scenes. A process invented by an Edmonton man, involving the use of high-frequency sound waves, is far from being a dead issue.

Don't be surprised if there's talk about pilot plant operations to test some of the extraction processes with in the near future.

The oil sands, lying along the Athabasca River in the area around McMurray, contain the world's largest known reserve of crude oil. Geologists estimate the sticky sands contain as much as 300 billion barrels of oil. A popular misconception is that no one knows how to extract the oil from the sand. Actually there are a number of successful processes, but the problem is to do it economically enough to make it compete with crude produced from conventional wells.

At present, oil is a drug on the market. But some day, the oil in the sands will be needed, and when that happens it won't take the major companies long to start producing. Any company ready with an economical process for extraction will have a head start on the others.

WORRY, WORRY -- Talk if a possible fall election (this column, last week) has the provincial Liberal party worried. An election in October would catch the Liberals without a new leader to replace J. Harper Frowse.

At the time of writing, Liberal officials were planning an executive meeting in Edmonton to discuss the possibility of holding their leadership convention earlier than the scheduled date -- Oct. 31.

Meanwhile, there has still been no concrete evidence to support the talk of a snap election.

X X X

TROUBLE BREWING? -- You'll hear more about the dismissal of P. D. Hargrave superintendent of the provincial horticultural station at Brooks. Reason given was that his administration of the station was "not up to standard". Example: He used station equipment on his own farm nearby. Hargrave, however, says he also used his own equipment on the station to balance it out. The dismissal has caused a furore in the Brooks area, and Opposition members say the case is certain to reach the Legislature next year...

A LETTER OF THANKS FOR FINDING TIMMIE TOWN

We, the parents of Timmie Town wish to thank the folks who helped in the search for our little boy.

We also wish to thank the R.C.M.P. of Entwistle for leading the searchers in their hunt. Also, many thanks to the ladies of Moon Lake and Entwistle who donated food and coffee and assisted in serving coffee and lunch to the many men who worked all through the night, until Timmie was found at 11 o'clock the next morning.

We are happy to say that Tiny Tim is fine and is none the worse for his long stay in the bush.

Please accept our most sincere and heartfelt thanks to everyone from far and near who came to us in our time of trouble.

Johnnie and Dorothy Town

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Delarue wish to thank all those who donated so generously when their baby boy -- Richard Ronald -- the first baby born in the new hospital, came along.

Judges for the Parade were Mrs H. Bolmer, Mrs McLean, and Mrs Burke. The library float won first prize, with the Alberta Government Telephone float, covered with pretty telephone operators and flanked by girls on horseback, won second prize with the W.I. float receiving third.

First prize for Bicycles was won by Linda Robertson, second by Terry Monstion, with third going to a young fellow who energetically pedalled a tri-cycle the entire length of the parade route, Roy Keim.

(Further Rodeo news will be given later)

FOR SALE: 14x26' SKIDSHACK, SENE-FURNISHED, APPLY: BOX 721 Drayton Valley. MUST SELL.

TWO BABIES, NINE PATIENTS.

At the time of printing Drayton Valley's Municipal Hospital had nine patients, with two births recorded.

Among the modern equipment of the hospital is a beautifully equipped modern laundry, over which Mrs Green, a Macleod D.P. from Birch River, Man. has charge.

SOME NOTES ON THE HOSPITAL STAFF:

Dr. T.H. Brooks, was the first doctor in the Femina outfield, he came to Drayton Valley in March, 1954, at the request of Mobil Oil of Canada, at which time only about six wells were producing.

He has had a wide experience in casualty work during the war and held several hospital appointments both surgical and medical. He was medical officer of health at Grande Prairie and also practiced in Yellowknife before deciding to accept the pioneer conditions that presented themselves in this area. After Dr. MacKure joined him some 18 months ago he has been able to attend several general practice post-graduate courses at the University Hospital, Edmonton. Recently he made a special study of anaesthesiology for some months at the University Hospitals of Vancouver and Saskatoon.

Dr. H.L. MacLure, in addition to having had considerable surgical experience under pioneer conditions in Africa when he was acting as a missionary doctor and also in the colonial medical service, holds the London University Diploma in Tropical Medicine and Hygiene. He also has attended several post-graduate courses at University Hospital.

Dr. Howard Gretton is expected in early September to join the staff in Drayton Valley. He holds a special qualification in the diploma of Obstetrics and Gynaecology. He has spent sometime in Germany.

Consultants will be: Dr John Hopkins, a specialist in Internal Medicine, who is on the staff of the Royal Alexandra and Misericordia Hospitals. He is associated in practice with Dr. Charles Rich, a well known heart specialist.

Dr. Harry Weinlos is a surgical specialist and is on the staff of the Misericordia Hospital; he has been well known by many G. timers in this district.

Dr. Harvey Hobb is a surgical specialist and is on the staff of the Royal Alexandra Hospital and the General Hospital of Edmonton. He is also medical officer to General Petroleum of Canada and Cascade Drilling Co. etc.

Dr. Lawrence Willoughby is a specialist in Obstetrics and Gynaecology, he is on the staff of the Royal Alexandra Hospital and the General Hospital, Edmonton. He is well known by many young mothers in this district.

DRAYTON VALLEY HIGHLIGHTS.

BY: EDITH DEBY.

There will be a Bridal Shower for Miss Marjorie Jensen, daughter of Mr and Mrs Milt Jensen, in the Moon Lake Hall on Saturday evening, August 16. Everyone is welcome.

The Drayton Valley Women's Institute has begun preparations for the Blood Donor Clinic's visit. The Clinic will be held in the Community Hall on September 8, from 2 to 5 and from 7 to 9 p.m. Posters are being distributed and cards filled.

Harry Zolmer was among the seven hundred Rotarians who gathered in Calgary last week-end to meet the Rotary International President. The wives of the visiting Rotarians were entertained by Mrs Cliff Walker, to a miniature stampede and barbecue.

Mrs Gordon Brown enjoyed a visit with her father in Toronto this summer. Other Ontario points visited included Orangeville and Chatham.

Little Holly Boles, daughter of Mr and Mrs Ralph Boles, sustained a painful back injury this week when she fell from some scaffolding where she was playing with friends.

Mr and Mrs Charles Moore and family leave this week end for a holiday at Sylvan Lake and other Alberta points.

Mr and Mrs McMorris received word on Saturday of the sudden death of Mr McMorris' father in Vancouver.

Art Jorgeson will attend the Banff workshop next week as delegate from Bonkerville. Mrs Jorgeson and little Jens will visit in Edmonton with Mr Jorgeson's father for the week.

This has been a very unlucky summer for the Jim Frasers insofar as motoring is concerned. Mrs Fraser had severely recovered from injuries received in a car accident some three months ago when Mr Fraser's car was rammed by another vehicle on country road near Bokville. Mr Fraser was not taken to hospital and expects to return to work soon.

P.C.'s HOLD SUCCESSFUL CONVENTION

A year or so ago some of the adherents of Alberta's present political regime claimed that the Progressive-Conservative Party, which hadn't had a provincial leader for twenty-one years, would be unable to find a good man to head the party provincially. How wrong they were was proved at the Alberta Progressive-Conservative Convention held last Friday and Saturday in the MacDonald Hotel and the Jubilee Auditorium when not just one, but five good men came forward for party leadership.

Interest and enthusiasm was high right from the opening registration on Thursday evening, when the large number of delegates, alternates and visitors who registered early showed that this was going to be a well-attended convention. Very few of the alternates got a chance to vote in the final count-down on Saturday afternoon as interest was so high the regular delegates were almost all on hand for the big moment.

The five men who were in the running were W.J.C. "Cam" Kirby, who had previously been president of the Alberta Progressive-Conservative Association, and who had resigned that position to run on the leadership ticket; C.A. Lazerte, a young lawyer of Edmonton, who resigned a position as party organizer for Northern Alberta to campaign as leader; Ernest Watkins, M.L.A. from Calgary, also a lawyer, with several books to his credit; Clifford Main, also a lawyer and an alderman in the City of Edmonton; and Mayor Ian Toshack, mayor of Drumheller.

The opening session at 10.00 o'clock Friday morning was preceded by a skit of bagpipes and rattle of drums as the cortege of dignitaries, led by His Worship Mayor Hawrelak, of Edmonton, came down the aisle of the Ballroom in the MacDonald.

Following the singing of the National Anthem and prayer Mayor Hawrelak gave the address of Welcome, which was responded to by Chairman Roy V. Deyell, of Calgary, who accepted the Provincial Progressive-Conservative presidency following the resignation of Mr. Kirby.

Mr. Deyell mentioned the speech of Premier Manning which had been given the evening before, on the eve of the Tory Convention, following a caucus of Social Credit top brass, referring to the Premier's speech as "a program of fear" since it was given without warning on the eve of the P.C. convention.

Keynote Speaker, Honorable Dufferin Roblin, Premier of Manitoba was introduced by J. Percy Page, M.L.A., and long-time Conservative. Premier Roblin told his audience that there was danger in over-confidence, as, he said, a party will not win a provincial election just because it has been successful federally. He stressed the fact that the party should enlist good men as candidates in each constituency. He said he would not discuss Alberta party politics, but he said, it was customary in Canada to eventually change political parties, he continued, "in Alberta... in time there will be a change. I won't say when..."

Notable guests at the convention, beside Mr. Roblin were Honorable Leon Balcer, Q.C., P.C. M.P. who at the age of 40 is one of the many young and stalwart of the Progressive-Conservative government in Ottawa; Miss Elizabeth Janzen, national president of the P.C. Women's Association; Douglas Jung, M.P., National President of the Y.P.C. association, the first Canadian of Chinese extraction to be elected to Parliament; Allister Grosart, National Director of the Progressive-Conservative party; Robert Soboda, Provincial President of the P.C. party in Saskatchewan; Deane Finlayson, Provincial leader of the P.C. party in B.C., and almost all the Members of Parliament from Alberta, including the representative from Jasper-Edson constituency Dr. Hugh Horner, his brother Jack, from Acadia Riding, Jack Biggs, of Athabasca, Jim Speakman of Wetaskiwin and Terry Nugent of Edmonton.

Following the issuing of the ballot books on Saturday morning the delegates gathered in Jubilee Auditorium in the afternoon for the balloting. (continue inside)
